COMPLAINT FOR
DECLARATORY JUDGMENT

ECF Case JUL 07 2014

U.S.D.C. S.D. N.Y.
CASHIERS

Plaintiffs McGraw-Hill School Education Holdings, LLC and McGraw-Hill Global Education Holdings, LLC (collectively and jointly here, as "McGraw-Hill Education"), by and through their undersigned attorneys, submit this Complaint for Declaratory Judgment against Defendants Jon Feingersh Photography, Inc., a Maryland corporation with its place of business in Maryland, and Feingersh, a commercial stock photographer who also resides in Maryland ("collectively Feingersh").

Plaintiff alleges as follows:

NATURE OF ACTION

1. This is an action for a declaratory judgment of non-liability pursuant to the federal Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201, to resolve an actual case or controversy that has arisen between McGraw-Hill Education and Feingersh. Through its legal counsel, the firm of Harmon & Seidman, which is litigating ten other copyright infringement cases against McGraw-

Hill Education based on similar allegations, Feingersh has accused McGraw-Hill Education of being liable for “copyright infringement and related claims” in connection with uses of Feingersh’s photos in textbooks published by McGraw-Hill Education and its predecessors. All such photo uses, however, were authorized by Feingersh’s stock photo agencies, first The Stock Market Photo Agency (“TSM”), and then its successor Corbis Corporation (“Corbis”). Binding contractual provisions in virtually all of the licenses and invoices relating to those transactions, as well as in the representation agreements between Feingersh and Corbis, require that litigation of claims arising out of use of Feingersh’s photos must be litigated in New York. Despite these binding forum-selection clauses in the Corbis and TSM invoices and agreements, Feingersh’s counsel has pursued other similarly situated cases against McGraw-Hill Education, which also were based on Corbis and TSM invoices, in jurisdictions other than New York, forcing upon McGraw-Hill Education the expense and distraction of having to file motions to enforce the applicable forum-selection clauses.

2. On July 3, 2014, counsel for Feingersh notified McGraw-Hill Education of Feingersh’s intent to pursue litigation McGraw-Hill Education, despite being well aware of the facts both that Corbis has declined to pursue any copyright infringement claims against McGraw-Hill Education and that McGraw-Hill Education’s agreements with Corbis bar any such litigation. In this regard, McGraw-Hill Education has valid and dispositive defenses to Feingersh’s claims of copyright infringement and related claims, including but not limited to the applicable statute of limitation, license, and failures to comply with the prerequisites of the Copyright Act.

3. Feingersh’s actions in asserting illusory, barred, or non-meritorious claims against McGraw-Hill Education have harmed, and threaten further harm to, the plaintiffs.

THE PARTIES

4. Plaintiff McGraw-Hill School Education Holdings, LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business located at 2 Penn Plaza, New York, New York, 10121. McGraw-Hill School Education Holdings, LLC is the successor in interest to the elementary and secondary schools textbook publishing business previously operated by The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc., now known as McGraw-Hill Financial, Inc. McGraw-Hill School Education Holdings, LLC has assumed all rights and liabilities related to those publications placed at issue by Feingersh that were initially published by the Schools Education Group, or related divisions, or their predecessors or successors, within The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc.

5. Plaintiff McGraw-Hill Global Education Holdings, LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business located at 2 Penn Plaza, New York, New York, 10121. McGraw-Hill Global Education Holdings, LLC is the successor in interest to the post-secondary and higher education textbook publishing business previously operated by The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc., now known as McGraw-Hill Financial, Inc. McGraw-Hill Global Education Holdings, LLC has assumed all rights and liabilities related to those publications placed at issue by Feingersh that were initially published by the Higher Education Group, or related divisions, or their predecessors or successors, within The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc.

6. According to its pleadings in other litigations it has filed against various publishers, Defendant Jon Feingersh Photography, Inc., is a corporation duly organized under the laws of Maryland with its principal place of business in Potomac, Maryland. According to the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation, Jon Feingersh Photography, Inc. is a Maryland corporation that is “Not in Good Standing,” last listing a principal office in Gaithersburg, Maryland.

7. Defendant Jon Feingersh is a commercial photographer who lives and works in Maryland, and who travels throughout the United States, and the world, for his photography business. Mr. Feingersh is the president and sole owner of Defendant Jon Feingersh Photography, Inc. On information and belief, Jon Feingersh is a stock photographer whose photos in this dispute were used by McGraw-Hill Education in its textbooks under authorization provided by Corbis or its predecessor TSM.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

8. This is an action for a declaratory judgment pursuant to the federal Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201.

9. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201, which authorizes the Court to declare the rights and other legal relations between interested parties, and 28 U.S.C. § 1338, which provides for jurisdiction in connection with claims arising under the copyright laws.

10. Venue is proper in this district under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and 1400(a).

11. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Feingersh pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Prac. L. & R. 301 because, upon information and belief, Feingersh has purposely targeted its activities to and has systematically transacted, done, and solicited business in this district, and pursuant to N.Y. Civ. Prac. L. & R. 302(a) because Feingersh transacted business with and contracted to provide services within the state of New York either to McGraw-Hill Education’s predecessors directly or through Corbis and/or TSM, and the claims herein arise out of that business activity. The majority of the Corbis invoices at issue in this dispute contain forum-selection clauses mandating the litigation of claims related to those invoices in New York. On information and belief, McGraw-Hill Education alleges that Feingersh's agreements with Corbis also mandate litigation of disputes relating to Corbis' representation of Feingersh's photographs in New York. And further, certain of the purchase orders or permission requests issued by McGraw-Hill Education in connection with the transactions at issue in the parties' dispute contain choice-of-law clauses that specify the law of the State of New York with regard to any claims arising in connection with the requested photo license.

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CLAIMS

12. McGraw-Hill Education is a global publisher of textbooks and educational materials to customers worldwide, with its core business focused on the publication of educational materials, including textbooks, for students from kindergarten through college.

13. McGraw-Hill Education's textbooks and other educational publications generally contain contributions from multiple sources, including photographs provided by third parties to McGraw-Hill Education, and constitute collective works within the meaning of the Copyright Act.

15. Since at least 1995, McGraw-Hill Education has entered into transactions with Corbis, or its predecessor The Stock Market, through which McGraw-Hill Education requested and paid for permission to use certain of Feingersh's stock photographs. Generally, for each transaction, McGraw-Hill Education would contact the photo agency and identify which of Feingersh's archived stock photographs were the ones which McGraw-Hill Education wished to use for a particular textbook project or other publication. The photo agency provided McGraw-Hill Education with high-resolution image files, or slides, of the selected photos, and thereafter, the photo agency would issue an invoice to McGraw-Hill Education specifying a price for the usage that McGraw-Hill Education had requested, and McGraw-Hill Education would then include the photograph in its publication.

16. Beginning in at least 2001, McGraw-Hill Education periodically entered into comprehensive agreements with Corbis that authorized McGraw-Hill Education to use Corbis-represented photos under certain terms and conditions. These agreements, and the course of dealing between McGraw-Hill Education and Corbis, established that McGraw-Hill Education had permission to use Corbis-represented photos in all of McGraw-Hill Education's textbook products as required by McGraw-Hill Education. The parties' agreements established the pricing levels that Corbis was permitted to charge for the usage that McGraw-Hill Education made of the Corbis-represented photos.

17. In the normal course of its dealings with Corbis, McGraw-Hill Education provided pre-publication estimates of what it anticipated would be the level of the distribution of the books in which the Corbis-represented photos would appear. Corbis then issued invoices for payment by McGraw-Hill Education based on those estimates, which McGraw-Hill Education then paid.

18. In some instances, the market demand for McGraw-Hill Education's publications may have exceeded McGraw-Hill Education's initial estimates. In such circumstances, Corbis was entitled to seek additional payment from McGraw-Hill Education for the unanticipated distribution.

19. Corbis has made no such demand for additional payment as to the photos that Feingersh has placed at issue in this dispute.

20. On July 3, 2014, Feingersh's counsel sent a demand letter seeking compensation for alleged "copyright infringement and related claims" based on a claim chart that summarized 341 purported claims of unlicensed or unauthorized uses of Feingersh's photos. A true and correct copy of this demand letter and its accompanying claim chart is attached here, and incorporated by reference, as Exhibit 1.

21. All of the claims listed in Feingersh's claim chart appear to relate to transactions between McGraw-Hill Education and Corbis (and its predecessor entity TSM).

22. Certain of the claims included in Feingersh's claim chart relate to transactions with separate entities for which McGraw-Hill Education has no responsibility or control, including but not limited to MacMillan Publishers and McGraw-Hill Education (Asia), which appears to be references to foreign companies separate from McGraw-Hill Education.

23. McGraw-Hill Education believes that it is not liable for "copyright infringement and related claims" with regard to all of the transactions identified in Feingersh's claim chart.

24. Based on the past conduct of Feingersh's counsel in other suits against McGraw-Hill Education under similar circumstances, as well as the demands in Feingersh's July 3, 2014 claim letter, McGraw-Hill Education has a reasonable, good-faith belief that there is a ripe and justiciable case or controversy between the parties. McGraw-Hill Education has a reasonable and legitimate anticipation of litigation regarding the transactions listed in Feingersh's claim chart, as well as potentially other claims by Feingersh against McGraw-Hill Education.

25. At no time has Feingersh or its counsel indicated that they would refrain from filing suit relating to the subject matter of Feingersh's July 3, 2014, claim letter.

26. The parties have not reached an agreement to resolve this dispute, in large measure because of Feingersh's insistence on seeking compensation for claims that are time-barred or are precluded by McGraw-Hill Education's contractual rights with Corbis, or otherwise are subject to meritorious defenses.

27. Among the various valid and enforceable defenses to any claim of copyright infringement by Feingersh are the following:

- a. The agreements and course of dealing between Corbis and McGraw-Hill Education provide McGraw-Hill Education with permission for its usage of Feingersh's Corbis-represented photos.
- b. McGraw-Hill Education has not exceeded any invoice restrictions with respect certain of the claims threatened by Feingersh.
- c. Many of the claims threatened by Feingersh relate to alleged uses of photographs that occurred beyond the limitations period for copyright infringement actions, and thus such claims are barred by the statute of limitations.
- d. Many of the photos itemized in Feingersh's claim chart do not appear to have valid copyright registrations sufficient to provide a basis for suit under the Copyright Act.
- e. Certain of the claims alleged in Feingersh's claim chart do not relate to publishing divisions for which McGraw-Hill Education is responsible or liable.
- f. To the extent that certain of Feingersh's threatened claims relate to McGraw-Hill Education's inclusion of a Corbis-represented photo in a later edition or revised version of a work for which McGraw-Hill Education previously had permission for the use of such photos, such reuse is non-infringing pursuant to the revision privilege contained in Section 201(c) of the Copyright Act.

28. In light of these various likely defenses, and others to be determined through discovery, Feingersh has no valid claims against McGraw-Hill.

CLAIM FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF

29. McGraw-Hill Education realleges and incorporates each of the above allegations as set forth in the preceding paragraphs by reference as if set forth herein at length.

30. Feingersh has claimed that McGraw-Hill Education is liable to him for “copyright infringement and related claims” based allegedly unauthorized use of Feingersh’s photos in McGraw-Hill Education publications.

31. Feingersh and its counsel have threatened to pursue these claims against McGraw-Hill Education through legal action.

32. An actual, present and justiciable controversy has arisen between McGraw-Hill Education and Feingersh concerning McGraw-Hill Education’s alleged liability for McGraw-Hill Education’s use of Feingersh’s photographs in McGraw-Hill Education textbooks.

33. McGraw-Hill Education has suffered and will continue to suffer harm as a result of the uncertainty concerning the potential liability for the transactions identified in Feingersh’s July 3, 2014 demand letter.

34. Any use by McGraw-Hill Education of Feingersh’s photographs is not liable to a claim for copyright infringement when it: (i) relates to photographs for which Feingersh lacks a valid copyright registration, or (ii) occurred more than three years ago, or (iii) was authorized by the permission for such use arising from McGraw-Hill Education's agreements and course of dealing with Corbis or its predecessor TSM, or (iv) is not in excess of any license limitations, or (v) is not a use of Feingersh's photos by McGraw-Hill Education but is rather use by a different publisher, or (vi) is simply a reuse of the same photograph in a later edition or revised version of the work for which McGraw-Hill Education originally obtained valid permission.

35. Feingersh's claims of copyright infringement against McGraw-Hill Education warrant judicial relief from this Court in the form of: (i) for each of the instances in which McGraw-Hill Education's alleged infringement occurred more than three years prior to July 7, 2014, declarations that Feingersh's claim is barred by the statute of limitations and that McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement; (ii) for each of the instances in which Feingersh lacks a valid copyright registration for the photograph at issue in Feingersh's claim chart, declarations that McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement; (iii) for each of the instances in which any use by McGraw-Hill Education was within an express, implied or other license from an authorized licensor, McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement; (iv) for each of the instances in which Feingersh's claims relate to textbooks books published by other publishers that McGraw-Hill Education does not control, that McGraw-Hill Education has no liability for such uses; and (v) for each of the instances in which McGraw-Hill Education simply included the same photo in a later edition or revised version of a McGraw-Hill Education publication, declarations that such inclusion was permissible under Section 201(c) of the Copyright Act and McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement.

WHEREFORE, McGraw-Hill prays for a declaratory judgment in its favor against Feingersh for the following relief:

A. An Order declaring that

- (i) For each of the instances in which McGraw-Hill Education's alleged infringement occurred more than three years prior to July 7, 2014, declarations that Feingersh's claim are barred by the statute of limitations and McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement;
- (ii) For each of the instances in which Feingersh lacks a valid copyright registration for the photograph at issue in Feingersh's claim chart, declarations that Feingersh lacks standing and McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement;
- (iii) For each of the instances in which any use by McGraw-Hill Education was within an express, implied or other license, that McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement;
- (iv) For each of the instances in which Feingersh's claims relate to textbooks books published by other publishers that McGraw-Hill Education does not control, that McGraw-Hill Education has no liability for such uses; and,
- (v) For each of the instances in which McGraw-Hill Education simply included the same photo in a later edition or revised version of a McGraw-Hill Education publication, declarations that such inclusion was permissible under Section 201(c) of the Copyright Act and McGraw-Hill Education is not liable to Feingersh for copyright infringement;

- B. An award to McGraw-Hill Education of its costs and disbursements incurred in this action, including its reasonable attorney's fees; and
- C. Such other and additional relief as this Court may deem just, proper and equitable.

Dear Mr. Stafford:

Harmon & Seidman LLC has been retained to represent John Feingersh Photography Inc. ("JFPI") regarding copyright infringement and related claims against McGraw-Hill Global Education Holdings, LLC McGraw-Hill School Education Holdings, LLC ("McGraw-Hill").

As you know, McGraw-Hill has infringed visual art licenses in hundreds of its educational publications. Only McGraw-Hill knows the extent of its infringements of JFPI's works. Attached is a list of JFPI images that were licensed to McGraw-Hill for limited use. In order to avoid unwarranted claims from being asserted, indicate which, if any, images have not been used beyond the license parameters.

Please advise by July 10, 2014 if McGraw will disclose its uses (print runs, image size, geographic distribution area, textbook language, electronic uses) of JFPI images, and sign the attached tolling agreement so that the parties may negotiate any settlement of McGraw-Hill's disclosed infringements. A response that only print run information for a limited period will be provided, and without a date established for McGraw-Hill's disclosure, will not be adequate.

It is our understanding that McGraw-Hill may have compiled a list of its unpermissioned or "uncleared" publications (those publications that were printed without some or all visual art licenses in place).

JFPI hereby requests that McGraw-Hill disclose from this list, or any other source, its wholly unlicensed uses of JFPI images. Please provide this information, or a date certain for providing it, by close of business July 10, 2014. If McGraw-Hill does not respond, we will assume McGraw-Hill intends to withhold information about its wholly unlicensed uses of JFPI images.

JFPI's agent Corbis Corporation's invoices issued to McGraw-Hill on and after November 19, 2001 also give Corbis the right "to bill [McGraw-Hill] (and [McGraw-Hill] hereby agree[s] to pay) ten (10) times the normal license fee for any unauthorized use, in addition to any other fees, damages, or penalties Corbis may be entitled to under this Agreement or applicable law.” JFPI stands in Corbis shoes and may pursue a claim for payment of this ten-times fee because it is a direct, intended beneficiary of all license agreements between Corbis and McGraw-Hill; or because Corbis was JFPI’s licensing agent, and entered into the licenses with McGraw-Hill as JFPI’s agent for the purpose of licensing his photographs.

JFPI hereby requests that McGraw-Hill disclose its unauthorized uses so that it may prepare the bill for ten-times the license fees.

If McGraw-Hill fails to disclose its uses, thus preventing JFPI from issuing a billing for a specific dollar amount, its deliberate frustration of this license provision will cause a waiver of any defense JFPI has not satisfied this term.

Finally, please address this matter:

Will McGraw-Hill voluntarily stop all future unauthorized uses of JFPI images, whether by printing, distributing, reproducing in electronic format, or including them in foreign language editions? Will McGraw-Hill agree to the issuance of an injunction to ensure its compliance? If your client contends it is not infringing JFPI’s work, please say so. If McGraw-Hill is continuing to infringe, simply tell us whether it will stop now. We invite your immediate reply to this inquiry.

Thank you for your timely response.

Sincerely,

TOLLING AGREEMENT

McGraw-Hill Global Education Holdings, LLC and McGraw-Hill School Education Holdings, LLC ("McGraw-Hill") hereby agree that the time between July 3, 2014 and its written notification otherwise, shall not count in any assertion, pleading, answer, motion, or any defense or avoidance based on the running of any statute of limitations that may otherwise apply during this tolled period. Further, McGraw-Hill hereby agrees that it will relinquish any defense or avoidance of liability to Jon Feingersh Photography, Inc. based on laches or any other related or similar principles concerning the timeliness of commencing a civil action during this tolled period.
